LABOR PARTY MEETS HEAVY REVERSES IN ENGLAND AND WALES

Conservatives Score Sweeping Gains in Municipal Elections on Campaign for Retrenchment and Economy—Liberals Co-operate Against Labor in Many Contests

LONDON, Nov. 3 (P).—Sweeping Conservative gains at the expense of Labor became apparent early today as returns from yesterday's municipal elections through England and Wales were compiled. In 130 principal cities and towns the gains and losses in polling for municipal councils was as follows:

Labor: 47 gains; 124 losses.
Conservatives: 76 gains; 35 losses.
Liberals: 19 gains; 16 losses.
Independents: 67 gains; 25 losses.

DEFENDING RECENT GAINS

Labor candidates in many cases were defending "gains" made three years ago. Polling took place in 360 cities, towns and boroughs to fill vacancies created by the triennial retirement of one-third of the councillors. In many smaller towns the voting was not on party lines, while in numerous larger centres Liberals and Conservatives coalesced or co-operated against Labor.

The Labor party had 1,074 candidates defending 446 seats and contesting others. Conservatives had 630 candidates in the field for 214 seats, while Liberals put up 150 candidates in 100 seats.

LANDSLIDE SOON APPARENT

Early returns indicated slight Labor losses, but as later results were announced a landslide against Labor became apparent. They lost control of some local councils and their representation was reduced on many others, while only a few instances was their representation increased.

Conservatives, where local issues were not the prime issue, for the most part campaigned on a program of retrenchment and economy.

British Naval Officers Bring Charge Against Japanese Police at Formosa

SHANGHAI, Nov. 3 (P).—British naval officers charged tonight that Japanese police tortured a British seaman to make him sign a "confession" that he cheated a taxicab driver.

UNDER INVESTIGATION

British authorities in London declared the incident still was under investigation.

Officials of the British Asiatic naval forces asserted the three seamen, from the British naval vessel, then stationed at Keelung, were seized on the charge that they did not pay a taxi-cab fare.

Four Japanese policemen held them down and Japanese detectives beat them in the faces to "persuade" the trio to sign statements that they had refused to pay the cab charge and had resisted officers. British officials declared.

JAW WAS BROKEN

Two of the seamen agreed to sign the declaration, but a third, who refused and was locked in jail, these officials stated.

When a fountain pen ink had been shot into the open wounds, they declared.

British naval authorities said they had unquestionable proof that the sailors paid the taxi fare.

BRITISH Columbia's Legislature adjourned after three solid hours of debate yesterday, with a want-of-confidence amendment hanging over the head of the administration, on the initiative of Clive Planta (Independent, Peace River) and R. H. Pooley, K.C. (Conservative, Esquimalt), who together called for appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate charges of a wholesale Chinese monopoly of green vegetables in the Province under allegedly feudal conditions of forced contract labor. Mr. Speaker Perry reserved his decision on the amendment, after formal objection by Premier Pattullo.

Orders Sent Out to East Coast Workers to Adhere to Sympathy "Sit Downs" on All American Vessels—Two Big Liners Tied Up as Result of Maritime Walkout

Oregon Lumbering Industry May Be Forced to Close Down

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2 (P).—Striking Pacific Coast maritime unions tonight extended their blockade order to all United States ports. The order affecting Pacific Coast ships wherever they may be except those out from Honolulu from Coast ports, was issued after union representatives caused indefinite postponement of a United States Maritime Commission hearing here by walking out.

The union order, which was issued by the International Longshoremen's Association, the Maritime Union of America, and the Seafarers' Union of America, called for a "sit down" strike on all American vessels.

Urges Inquiry Into Beer and Liquor in B.C. Control System

Hugh Savage, M.P.P., Asserts Province Not Getting Benefit of Large Profits — Mrs. R. P. Steeves, M.P.P., Heard in Main Debate

CHARGING that unwarrantable profits were being made in the sale and distribution of beer in British Columbia, Hugh Savage, independent member for Cowichan-Newcastle, called on the Government in the Legislature yesterday to launch an inquiry into the whole question.

"I am concerned with the fact that there is strong reason to believe that the British Columbia consumer, working man or not, is being charged double the price that he would have to pay in Washington or Quebec, and that charge is for a of the profits are going not to public funds, but to interest companies and individuals, and to beer parlors. I am not alone in thinking that things are not above suspicion," Mr. Savage declared.

"I urge that an inquiry be made. I call on all good citizens in this Legislature to support it. As I said last session, investigations should start with the breweries and include an inquiry into the capital structure, previous and present profits, and all British Columbia breweries selling beer or liquor to the British Columbia Liquor Control Board," the member for Cowichan-Newcastle said.

At other points in his address, Mr. Savage praised the Government for forest training and prospecting camps, and urged extension of this principle to the employment of youth on roads. He said conditions in his riding were improving, but urged additional attention to forest conservation and reforestation. The Government had been lax, he said, in not placing a plain statement of British Columbia finances before the people, confused by appeals to Ottawa for funds and subsequent disclosure of cash surpluses in the British Columbia Treasury House.

PRICE DIFFERENCES

Draft beer in Quebec, he continued, was sold to licensees for $11.50 per twenty-five gallons, while the same quantity was sold to British Columbia licensees by the Liquor Control Board for $23, or a difference of 100 per cent. The Quebec administration, moreover, took larger sums into revenue despite the cheaper price than did British Columbia at double the figure.

Mr. Savage said he told a British brewer about British Columbia prices and was advised that the very best quality of beer sold to publicans in England for about the same price as British Columbia beer of much inferior quality sold here. "Real beer, with a strength of 10.52," sold in Great Britain for 140 shillings, compared with 144 shillings, the approximate equivalent of the British Columbia price. Beer of equal strength to that in British Columbia retailed for seventy-four shillings, he said, and could be laid down in this province at a profit.

URGENT INQUIRY

"I want to emphasize that it is at the brewery where the high cost begins and is pyramided. The original cost paid to the brewery is the basic reason why five-cent beer is ten-cent beer in British Columbia. That is about 100 per cent overcharge. There are immense sums of money concerned in this beer business, to say nothing about the liquor business. The vast bulk

Meeting With Head Hunter

If we were in Mrs. Martin Johnson's place when this picture was made, we'd feel awfully itchy around the neck; for the dusky man dressed up in the 'horns' tails is a head hunter of the Rumanian tribe. shogged why present areas are not reseeded adequately. With half of the accessible timber areas on the coast now producing nothing but fireweed and salal, it was time to take steps to decide the question. Finally, he suggested, fire losses in the coast area accounted for 7,000 acres yearly, or the equivalent of $20,000,000 worth of artificial reforestation.

Fire prevention in the interior and more careful methods on the coast could be used to restore existing stocks, he concluded.

K. C. McCallum, in charge of forest training camps, showed the committee three interesting reels of motion pictures taken at Cowichan Lake, Green Timbers and Aleza Lake camps this year, describing the work of some 500 youths who had been put through the camps.

The committee adjourned until 10:30 a.m. today, when E. C. Manning, chief forester, is expected to develop further the question of forest management.

Capd. C. S. Leary, M.P.P., presided.

Prior to yesterday's vote, Labor had majorities in 42 of the 372 city and borough councils in England and Wales.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. This leads to your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons get into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks queer.

A new bowel movement doesn't always get all the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old, Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of natural bile but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else.

AIR SERVICE BRANCH

The air service branch will consist of the civil aviation division, transferred from national defence, and the radio and meteorological divisions of the former Department of Marine. Commander Edwards will be director of air services. T. A. Wilson continues as head of the civil aviation division with the title of controller. Dr. John Patterson continues as controller of the meteorological division. Mr. A. Rusk has been promoted from the position of general superintendent of radio to that of head of the radio branch, with the title of controller of radio. Donald Manson, chief-inspector of radio, received a promotion to the position of assistant controller of radio.

With the contemplated inauguration of the trans-Canada air mail route next year, there will be considerable expansion of the activities of the civil aviation division, and with meteorology and radio playing such an important part in aviation, it is considered that the grouping together of these branches in one "air service branch" will provide coordination in the highest possible degree.

Walker, who has been purchasing agent for the Department of Marine. The consolidated record branch will be headed by E. Kenny, heretofore in charge of marine records. "The savings and benefits to be derived from the consolidation of the various services comprised in the new department," the statement said, "will be a gradual development and will require some time to reach maximum effectiveness."

HUNTER WOUNDED BY HIS OWN GUN

DUNCAN, Nov. 2.—William Holmes, a member of the crew of H.M.C.S. Skeena, was apparently recovering in hospital here today from a rifle bullet wound in the hip, suffered yesterday when his rifle accidentally discharged.

He stumbled while hunting in the vicinity of Mount Prevost.

A companion summoned Fred and Sidney Medley, of Nanaimo, also hunting in the district, by honking the horn of the Medley's parked car. The three bandaged Holmes and drove him into Duncan. Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Holmes, parents of the wounded man, live near Duncan.

CAR PLUNGES OVER MALAHAT DRIVE BUT PASSENGERS UNHURT

Passengers in a car that dropped forty feet over the Malahat early Sunday morning and rolled twice before coming to a stop on the edge of a 200-foot cliff, were congratulating themselves yesterday on having escaped with only minor bruises. The car chassis was badly bent, but the body suffered only a few dents.

Principal Police Constable Darrell Pringle, 610 Gorge Road, was driver of the car, a drive-vault, automobile, and had apparently been forced off the road by another machine about seventeen miles from Victoria.

Tiny Orphaned Cougar

Above is shown the one-month-old cougar cub, weighing about a pound and a half, which was on view in Wilson & Lenfesty's sporting goods store, Government Street, yesterday. The tiny cub's mother was shot in the Shawigan Lake district, Thursday, by Chris G. Behnen, who was hunting with his son and "Rosie" Elves. Behnen's cougar dog treed the mother cat after chasing her from her lair at the foot of a cliff. After the dogs treed the lioness Behnen dropped her with a shot through the heart, to make his twenty-fifth kill in three years. Back at the lair the hunters found the cub curled up like a fluffy fur ball.

THE GOLD STANDARD

Recent events have made it tolerably clear that gold still serves an important function in the world of international trade, and is likely to continue to do so. Great Britain, France and the United States, the three leading countries of the world, recently made arrangements to steady the exchange quotations of the franc. The United States Treasury will supply gold in exchange for dollars by any country which gives reciprocal facilities to the United States. Great Britain has agreed to give similar facilities, and arrangements of the same kind have been made with the Bank of France. These steps may be taken as an unmistakable sign that in those countries the official opinion is that gold is a necessity for international settlements.

The financial aspect of The London Spectator, in a recent issue of that journal, expresses the hope that before long the understanding arrived at by the three great Powers may lead to a general stabilization based upon an international gold standard. He is strongly of opinion that while much has been said lately about "managed currencies," and while much may be said for action by governments in times of emergency, nevertheless in normal times the working of the exchanges should be left in the hands of ordinary traders, and not with the Government. He points out that while managed currencies may work with some success while governments are on terms of friendship, they might present a different aspect if relations became strained.

The Spectator article enumerates some of the privileges enjoyed by the world of trade when gold was the generally recognized international standard. Trade was far greater in those days than now. There was not the slightest difficulty in arranging international transactions. If there were trade cycles, alternations of periods of greater and lesser trade activity, there was also steady progress in an ever-increasing prosperity. A country which could obtain the supplies of gold necessary for sound financial conditions was able to achieve a favorable trade balance. Moreover, it should not be forgotten that the disturbance which occurred in 1914 was not due to the action of those who were operating the gold standard system. It was political rather than economic. The opinion is strongly expressed that there has been too much loose talk about the "thralldom" of gold, and that in the years to come we may find that true liberty is only to be found in the reasonable control imposed by a gold standard.

SOMETHING TO RECAPTURE

Principal Morgan, of McGill University, says that the latter-day interpretation of happiness is "getting and spending," and that the world has changed in the last three or four hundred years so that now more and more people are "caught into that great swirl which carries men round like a dormouse in its cage tolling and molling largely for material ends." He was addressing the Chateaugay-Huntingdon Women's Institute and criticizing the fact that the taste of the poor was dragged down to the level of the rich in the search for beauty.

Principal Morgan sees human nature as a complicated thing, a bundle of capacities and longings. There are the mental qualities, the moral qualities and the personality, and the latter embraces the emotions—love, anger, hate, admiration, sympathy, horror and the different feelings experienced in life. The more there is immersion in material things the less the emotions have the capacity for expression, and so people "become more or less fixed into a constant materialism that considers only material things in life." This means that human nature becomes warped.

In the opinion of Principal Morgan, modern-day materialism is crushing down the sense of beauty, and this is reflected in what people think of education, which is aimed now-a-days to make boys and girls good citizens. It appears that a good citizen is one capable of making money, and so education is directed to that end, whereas, as Principal Morgan sees it, we need not regard the creators of beauty as good citizens, and therefore don't bother about them.

There was a time when men and women were more concerned in making beautiful things than they are today. That was when, as Principal Morgan showed, the houses they lived in, the clothes they wore, in fact everything was simple, but carried a sense of satisfactory proportion and line and some satisfactory rhythm which made them beautiful. "In the Cotswolds," he said, "near the country from which Shakespeare came, is farmed after farmed solidly built of stone, roofed in stone. After hundreds of years these farmsteads stand four-square to the blasts and storms of generation after generation, wonderfully simple. People then were not concerned with frills, but they had some very fine craftsmanship. With sure instinct and delicate craftsmanship they made beautiful lasting things."

What is desirable is to recapture that sense of beauty. Now-a-days when people have got on in life and accumulated a little money they have bought pretty houses and clothes, and what have been the result? The production of those ghastly horrors which clutter modern houses. They are not genuine, they are sham stuff. If you are poor, you have a log cabin. If you are rich, you have an elaborate house and carving made by machinery to plaster on the stage. Perhaps the log cabin is the real thing. So devoted have we become to Mammon that we cannot think anything is good unless it is expensive. Principal Morgan's advice to the Women's Institute is to awaken anew the sense of beauty, to cultivate this faculty so that people can make beautiful things. We quote his conclusion:

"There is the beauty of poetry, the beauty of drama. I know that in many sections the Women's Institute have done a great deal to revive the drama, and there is no more worthwhile way to reproduce beauty. Everything can be expressed in drama. And so one can look around from kitchen to the stage from the simplest garment that you make to the poem you enjoy, and see that in all these things it is possible to satisfy the desire for beauty. We cannot afford to treat beauty as an extra. It is a necessity. 'Man cannot live by bread alone,' is a recognition of the beautiful in life. Without recognition of the need for that beauty and its satisfaction there can be no true man or woman."

FROM NINE MILES UP

The earth itself and man's works particularly appear somewhat trivial things to one looking down from a height of nine miles. Squadron Leader F.R.D. Swain who has reached the world record altitude of 49,967 feet did so on a clear day when he could see the whole of the English coastline from Margate to Land's End and North almost as far as the Wash. He says that London looked like a little toy town and that the Thames and other rivers appeared as pieces of narrow ribbon. The Channel Islands looked like small stones in a shallow river-bed and the impression was that England was "a very minute country."

Here is what Squadron Leader Swain says of some of his other observations: "At about 45,000 feet I found on looking down that the light was almost dazzling. I had made several flights previously, however, and knew that the light was going to be very bright, so that I had asked that the top of the main plane and fuselage should be painted dull black to minimize the glare. On looking up at the sky I found it was a very deep blue—almost black; and the reason was that there are no molecules of dust or moisture to split up the rays of light, and there are no clouds above about 35,000 feet."

Thrift is among the greatest of material virtues. It is being practised to a greater extent than in the past in England and Wales, and of course in Scotland as well. In the former two countries the average savings per head of the population in 1933-1934 was £3 7s 1d. In 1934-1935, £3 15s 7d, and in 1935-1936, £4 1s 8d. These figures are given by Lord Mottistone, chairman of the national savings committee, and he also points out that the amount remaining to the credit of savers in the three state-controlled institutions at September 30 of this year was £1,338,600,000, equivalent to £29 14s per head, or £133 per family. The estimate is that in England and Wales there is a sum of £3,000,000,000 in small savings, which works out at something like £300 a family.

In Germany because of the alarming increase in casualties it has been decided to transfer the supervision of road traffic into the hands of the police for two years. In the second quarter of this year the total of casualties rose from 50,236 to 70,521 and deaths from 1,497 to 2,380. Now more drastic penalties are to be provided and a campaign is to be inaugurated against those who speed and drive carelessly otherwise.

BRITISH COLONIAL POSSESSIONS

Perhaps the strongest influence behind Germany's claim and Italy's ambitions is the desire for equality with the Colonial Powers on the ground of national prestige and status. Germany's pre-war white colonial population was small and that of Italy in the Italian uplands after fifty years was negligible. Nevertheless, there is a British school of thought which would satisfy the German demands, refusing to recognize, as The Times has remarked, "no less, for Germany, are integral parts of the Empire, not objects of barter or parts of a jigsaw puzzle to be transferred from one owner to another to fit a political pattern." The colonial possessions are trusts, many of them a moral liability, to be administered in the interests of the inhabitants with a view to the time, near perhaps in some cases, distant in others, when they will be qualified to look after themselves—Auckland Times.

There will be no safety on the roads for motorists or pedestrians until public opinion asserts itself and insists that the present perils are lessened, or until those whose duty it is to help in removing them are made to understand that they are unfit for their responsibilities—Irish Independent.

Note and Comment

By Sandham Graves

As one who has labored over the fortunes and fates of not a few sessions of this very own Legislature, it gives me great pleasure to record that the Fourth Session has shaken off its lethargy and has now developed an entity of its own. In brief, there has been developed that tangible, visible, resplendent thing, a group feeling.

For know that you may assemble forty-eight people in one chamber, and still not have any unity in their thoughts or feelings; that you can nearly see them thinking forty-eight different thoughts and experiencing forty-eight emotions at the same time.

But there comes a time with every assembly, in every gathering, and in every Assembly, when all present will swing into a unity of feeling. A conscious, living spirit is born; and such a body then responds as one man to the same emotion, whether momentarily. It is the group spirit which the group responds, whichever way.

The Fourth Session opened unconsciously under a cloud. Honorable members went through the time-honored motions with the best of honorable intentions, but their hearts and thoughts seemed to be somewhere else. The reaction, to watchers, was that there was a neglected thing like the fifth wheel on a wagon, the second yolk in a doubtful egg, a tax collector at a surprise party, or a yes-man at a funeral—a very spare part. Three other sessions, each with clearly defined purposes, had preceded it.

That is all changed now, and for the better. Quite suddenly, as the House was preparing to disperse to go home for its first week-end recess, the proceedings came alive. Members thought in speech-making became spontaneous. The House was as one man, listening with a greater faith in itself than it had done for many a week sitting previously.

It was in this new and brighter atmosphere that an honorable member solemnly declared that in Vancouver 3,047 families were living in a single room—a physical absurdity—and yet he was instantly understood. At forty-seven places around the chamber you could see colleagues and opponents making the necessary correction in their minds. Nay, you could see the House as a unit making its adjustment—3,047 families in 3,047 rooms.

It was in this atmosphere, too, that the wistful story of another honorable member was received and repeated in wistful expressions on forty-seven other countenances: the story of a business man who wanted to spend $3,000,000 in British Columbia, and would undoubtedly have done so but for the fact that he could not get the money.

The House adjusted itself to that statement instantly. It knew that somewhere far beyond the Rockies the man had looked for $3,000,000, so that he could spend it in B.C., only to be coldly refused. Mentally the House cheered for the man who would have—if he could, you know.

The same awareness, the same concentration of feeling greeted another and more sombre picture (one which the Government while in Opposition had taken pains to depict with fidelity and detail), the plight of homeless men without work in Canada. An honorable member pointed out young men island-fleeing along the railway tracks in the jungles of Translandia.

He advised the House to shut Okalla to see other youths—just in at five o'clock each night to spend fourteen unbroken hours with their own bitter thoughts; to visit mental hospitals, where misery stands unrelieved by even the greatest care and attention that man may devise.

Yes, something happened to the Fourth Session as it regressed last week sometime that happened to every group that sits for long and earnestly together, something that one likes to think of as a merging of hearts, if not altogether of minds. For this thing is closer to emotion than it is to thought, and closer to humanity than to law-making. It is a living sympathy.

It made one forget the extra sessional indemnities, forget the long delays of law-making and the frustrations of politics, forget the chamber with its seven different brands of party and remember that under the surface, and carefully hidden from public eyes, honorable and honest members have human hearts that throb in unison when a valid appeal is made to their sympathy.

It was no longer the Lost Session for 'it had become quite suddenly a Parliament—a Parliament of men of good intent.

Reservations for Christmas Dinner

Number Thousand

Already nearly 1,000 reservations have been made for the Empress Hotel's annual Christmas dinner and entertainment. Of this number, one-third was received from Americans. Last year about 1,200 persons were served, but an even greater number is expected this Christmas.

As in the past, celebrations will be on an elaborate scale, with the Yule Log and Boar's Head pageantry, and carol singing by artists in Tudor costume.

Too Busy to Last
Early morning lights are amusing. One of Victoria's business blocks had a car who used to drive to work clad only in pajamas and bathrobe. Only a Little Fellow

Tor Johnson, 365-pound Swedish wrestler, has been in the grunt and groan business sixteen years, eight which have been spent in the professional ranks. He is twenty-nine years old and was born in Sweden. Married twelve years ago, Johnson is the father of a ten-year-old son.

Only eight pounds at birth, at fifteen he weighed 200 pounds and stood six feet in height. While he spends most of his time in the motion picture game, he played in "Registered Nurse," "Double Fight" and the "Lady" made a two-reel comedy, "Some Class," at New York and appeared in "The Man on the Flying Trapeze." Johnson told us, while talking to him in the lobby of the St. James Hotel, that his father won the world amateur heavyweight championship at Athens, Greece, in 1908. So after all, Mr. Tor Johnson is 365 pounds, the biggest man in short, really came from a grappling family—S.T.

Do You Know That

Officials of the Brooklyn Dodgers, after carefully canvassing the situation, claimed that they had 236 candidates, no less, for Casey Stengel's old job as manager of the club. Extravagant Cooks

For several days a resident of James Bay was puzzled by disappearance of his morning bottle of milk from the veranda. The milkman maintained that he had delivered the milk, and the man who had the milk to prove it. In a Victoria-home there is an intelligent dog who is the joy of his mistress. One day the mistress sat in the kitchen and intently watched his mistress wrap up a chop in wax paper and place it in the refrigerator. Three days later when the dog's mistress was cleaning the living-room she found an ancient bone wrapped in paper hidden under a cushion on the Chesterfield. . . . Navy of Today Great Improvement on Navy Of Half Century Ago

Capt. T. L. Thorpe-Double Addresses Overseas League, Giving Intimate Picture on Training Ship Britannia in the 'Eighties

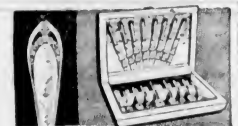

THE navy of today, both in point of efficiency and comfort of the crew, is a long step in advance of the navy of fifty years ago, according to Captain T. L. Thorpe-Double, R.N., retired, who gave an illuminating talk on "The Navy of Fifty Years Ago" at the regular monthly tea meeting of the Overseas League held yesterday afternoon at Spencer's dining-room.

Among the principal causes of the improved conditions were the introduction of electric lighting, the Naval Defence Act of 1889, which was followed by the building of a large number of then-modern cruisers, the end of the wooden-ship era and the abolishing of "salt" drill.

Introduced by the Overseas League chairman, T. H. Laundy, the speaker gave an intimate picture of a sailor's life as he experienced it aboard the training ship Britannia fifty years ago. Actually the Britannia consisted of two ships, the Britannia and the Hindustan, which were joined together by a bridge popularly known as the Suez Canal. Originally called the Prince of Wales, the Britannia was never in commission as being completed just at the end of the Crimean War, when armor-plated ships were coming in, she was already obsolete.

SLEPT IN HAMMOCKS
According to their year, the boys' sleeping quarters were either on the lower deck or the middle deck. The main deck was reserved for exercising and other activities. All boys slept in hammocks which, the speaker maintained, were "the most comfortable of sleeping berths." Not so comfortable were the bathing facilities, which consisted of a chilly salt-water plunge at the end of the deck, after which the boys had to run back to their quarters to rub down. All their belongings had to be limited to the measurements of their sea chests, which were occasionally raided by the police for any unpermitted possessions.

with breech-loading guns (about 1886) were the Edinburgh and the Colossus. It was not until the Naval Defence Act of 1889 that the modern navy, as such, came into existence.

Speaking of the various improvements found in modern ships, Captain Thorpe-Double first mentioned the electric light. He had been fifteen years at sea before he saw a ship lighted with electricity. Before that candles were used, fitted in lanterns with tin reflectors. Poor lighting was responsible for many dark corners where dirt could collect; the better lighting brought about much cleaner and healthier ships and better discipline.

In 1904 he went down to Portsmouth to look at the first submarine, a craft at that time only fit for harbor defence, but since then developed into a highly important part to the navy equipment. The next big menace to the fleet was aircraft. Captain Thorpe-Double said, naval men were divided into two hostile camps on the question of the effectiveness of the air menace on ships, although no one doubted the effectiveness of aircraft over land.

A. R. Sherwood moved the vote of thanks to Captain Thorpe-Double.

Canadian Airways Pilot Going on Mercy Flight When Ice Thickens

EDMONTON, Nov. 2 (P.)—Plans for a daring aerial rescue of James Parres, youthful Saskatoon aviator suffering from heart attack in a remote mining camp on the north shore of Great Slave Lake, were being made today by Canadian Airways officials.

The aviation company's wireless operators flashed messages over the week-end that Parres had suffered a relapse and had spent poor nights Friday and Saturday. When weather permits, an attempt will be made to fly the stricken man 300 miles south to the nearest hospital located at Fort Smith, N.W.T.

ICE TOO THIN
Capt. W. R. "Wop" May, superintendent of Canadian Airways, announced today that thin ice would prevent the mercy flight being made for several days at least. He said the temperature had not gone below zero between Fort Smith and Yellowknife Bay and ice had not formed thick enough to allow an airplane to land.

Since last Wednesday night Dr. C. O. Giegie, of Edmonton, has been attempting to administer treatment by wireless message to companions of the patient lying in a cabin bunk at the gold camp on Yellowknife Bay, 830 air miles north of Edmonton.

An aerial rescue had been impossible previously because the freeze-up period in the Far North prevented airplanes equipped with pontoons landing, and insufficient ice or snow had formed to permit a landing with skis.

Pilot Rudy Heuss, Canadian Airways, who spent the "in-between" season at Fort Smith in preparation for an early start to rescue an Arctic boat crew marooned at Coppermine, today was planning to make the 600-mile dash into the Yellowknife Bay mining camp and return.

READY FOR RISK
Ice has formed sufficiently to permit a landing, although there is danger of its cracking under the strain, but the Northern pilot is willing to risk this in an effort to save the young engineering student's life.

During the first few days of the unusual method of advancing treatment of Parres, the University of Saskatchewan graduate rallied, but the inadequacy of the "remote control" treatment began to tell over the week-end as Parres' condition took a turn for the worse.

Masters of mimicry and onomatopoeia, the choir achieved some truly bizarre effects, although always thoroughly in keeping with the character of the music. They are matchless interpreters of the passionate, the declamatory and warlike; and as the numbers were mostly sea-like and baroque in character often sang and chanted, they had free scope for the use of the extraordinary hammer-like attack, their resonant bass tone and the haunting high tone of the male soprano. This last, extremely delicate and fine, yet virile, and when occasion demanded, swelling out into full resonant tenor volume. All these changes were swift, yet with no perceptible break to mark the passing from diminuendo to crescendo or reversely.

The programme was a magnificent one, including a group of religious numbers, Grelchanioff's "Responsory," "Our Holy Lord" (Tchaikovsky), Katsalovsky's "We Sing to Thee," "O Lord, I Cried Unto Thee," and Panteleev's "In Thy Kingdom." These were followed as a separate distinct group, by fierce Cossack war-songs or choruses, Schvedoff's "History in Song of S. Jaroff and His Cossack Chorus," specially written for the chorus in celebration of the three-thousandth concert, given in Carnegie Hall, New York, last year; Terek and Kuban Cossack songs, arranged by the leader, Borodina; Potemsky Song; another Jaroff arrangement of "Two White Russian Songs," and Schvedoff's remarkable arrangement, for the Don Cossack chorus, of Rachmaninoff's best-known "Second" prelude. In the last group were songs, some of the ballet type including a vividly animated "Old Polka," and a hauntingly beautiful "Lullaby," which used the soprano voices to very fine effect.

Borneo Proboscis Monkey

This Cyano de Bergerac of the Simian world is called a proboscis monkey—and you don't have to look very far for the reason. Wearing this tragicomic expression he was photographed as he arrived in New York in a cargo of wild beasts and birds brought back by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, famous hunters and explorers, from Borneo.

Don Cossack Choir Given Magnificent Reception in City

"Singing Horsemen of the Steppes" and Their Popular Leader, Serge Jaroff, Surpass All Expectations in Programme at Empire Theatre

A HOUSE packed from gallery to footlights last night at the Empire Theatre greeted with wildly enthusiastic applause the much-heralded Don Cossack choir and their leader, Serge Jaroff.

Surpassing all expectations, although their fame had long since pervaded the public imagination, this unique vocal ensemble of thirty-two "Singing Horsemen of the Steppes" figuratively swept the audience off its feet. The whole evening was an unforgettable experience, concluding with a barbarically splendid war song, into the midst of which three dancers leapt, spinning dizzily and bounding high into the air with the mad abandon of life Cossack warrior.

Cossacks undoubtedly, men who during the Czarist regime served as officers in the Imperial Army, and during the revolution in the White Army of the Crimea, these voices were recruited by Serge Jaroff from the terrible prison camp at Tihelen, where they had been sent after the defeat of Wrangel and the downfall of Denikin's troops.

STAMPED INTO MUSIC
Something of those awful experiences, as well as some wild racial quality, is stamped into their music. There is a poignant quality in the untamed spirit and the barbaric fire with which they declaim their songs. In the wild, free, dramatic fervor with which they infuse their interpretations.

In black Cossack uniform, tunics belted, the wide trousers tucked into high boots, the singers quietly took up their position on the stage, in double rank, forming a semi-circle facing the audience. The little conductor, his hands unimpeded by a baton, entered last, stepped briskly to his podium, and after acknowledging the applause, turned and without a moment's loss of time gave the cue for the choir to begin.

From the first note the audience sat enthralled. Such choral technique has never before been heard here. Glorious voices, each a voice of solo quality, yet each a part of a whole, superbly disciplined, exquisitely blended, the results were a symphony of rich tones, of confidence, sensitively responsive and capable of every shade of tonal color from the most somber-like pianissimo to a full organ tone of grandly resonant quality.

Masters of mimicry and onomatopoeia, the choir achieved some truly bizarre effects, although always thoroughly in keeping with the character of the music. They are matchless interpreters of the passionate, the declamatory and warlike; and as the numbers were mostly sea-like and baroque in character often sang and chanted, they had free scope for the use of the extraordinary hammer-like attack, their resonant bass tone and the haunting high tone of the male soprano. NEW BY-LAW INTRODUCED IN BIG DEAL

City Council Seeking Legislation to Validate Sale of C.P.S. Property

SPECIAL COMMITTEE TO SEE GOVERNMENT

A new by-law to sell the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber & Timber Company, Ltd., property back to former owners for $19,000, on terms, was introduced at a City Council meeting yesterday afternoon.

Government approval of the sale will be sought by a petition for an order-in-council. In the by-law, the company agrees to pay $13,574.99, plus $5,425.01 in respect to arrears of taxes on foreshore rights.

In the by-law, payments on the $13,574.99 will be split up into $574.99 on June 30, 1937, and $1,000 on the last day of every month thereafter, together with interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, payable quarterly. On the $5,425.01, the sum of $500 will be paid on delivery of the agreement for sale, $500 on January 31, 1937; $1,000 on February 28, $1,000 on March 31, $1,000 on April 30, $1,000 on May 31, and $425.01 on June 30, with interest of 5 per cent. The by-law will not be considered again until the order-in-council is secured.

GRAIN ELEVATOR
Aldermen Dr. J. D. Hunter, T. W. Hawkins and Walter Loney, finance and legislative committee of the City Council, were instructed to appear before the private bills committee of the Legislature to support an application in respect to Panama Pacific Grain Terminals, Ltd., elevator. The city seeks legislation to enable it to take a quit claim deed to the elevator, and to dispose of it by sale or lease with privileges regarding fixed taxation and assessment.

A letter from Mayor David Leeming, dated September 16, dealing with a clause of the original bond refunding scheme, caused considerable discussion when it came before the council for the second time. Mayor Leeming asked that Aldermen Dr. J. D. Hunter, T. W. Hawkins and Walter Loney, finance and legislative committee of the City Council, be instructed to appear before the private bills committee of the Legislature to support an application in respect to Panama Pacific Grain Terminals, Ltd., elevator. The city seeks legislation to enable it to take a quit claim deed to the elevator, and to dispose of it by sale or lease with privileges regarding fixed taxation and assessment.

Poultry Official Is Visitor in City
O. M. Cormie, poultry commissioner of Alberta, spent the week-end in Victoria and yesterday conferred with Hon. K. C. MacDonald regarding poultry problems of the two neighboring provinces. He later left on the afternoon boat for Vancouver to meet poultrymen on the mainland during the week.

V. Jenks, New Westminster, was in Victoria yesterday and conferred with officials of the Department of Agriculture with reference to honey production.

was right. A motion to rescind the resolution passed, with Aldermen Archie Wills, Edward Williams and McGavin voting "No."

Lengthy debate was devoted to the question of whether an outside civic employee, on a day salary, was entitled to the same sick leave as one on a monthly basis. Alderman McGavin pointed out any application for sick leave had to be referred to the council, accompanied by a certificate.

Application by Mrs. M. Y. Rainaldi, 2223 Shakespeare Street, to repurchase a lot on the north side of North Park Street, between Cook and Chambers Streets, for $266.38 on terms, was granted. It was decided to call for tenders to repair drains, plaster and brickwork of the old Congregational Church building at the corner of Pandora Avenue and Blanshard Street. Aldermen Dewar and Loney, and the land commissioner, pointed out repairs were necessary to prevent further depreciation.

In discussing an amendment to the streets traffic by-law to provide a "no parking" area for a distance of fifty-one and one-half feet in front of Northwestern and Central Creameries on Broad Street, Alderman McGavin told of double and triple parking on Port Street against some of the yellow strips.

Alderman Dewar claimed hourly parking was a joke. Every day, he said, he saw automobiles parked all day in one-hour zones. Acting Mayor James Adam declared it was extremely unfair, and suggested writing to Chief of Police Thomas Heatley. It was decided to allow the "no parking" area off Broad Street during business hours, but the distance was shortened to forty feet. An amendment to the by-law was ordered prepared.

BONFIRES FILLED LONG-FELT WANT
Acting Mayor James Adam Offers Thanks to All Who Assisted in Halloween Jamboree

Expressing great satisfaction of the fires arranged in city parks to entertain boys and girls on Halloween, Acting Mayor James Adam indicated yesterday plans would be made for an even brighter celebration next year. He was sure the bonfires furnished an adequate outlet for boyish exuberance and filled a long-felt want in Victoria.

The acting mayor paid tribute to the assistance of W. H. Warren, parks superintendent, Chief of Police, and the many who assisted in the bonfires.

Protect Your Hard-Earned Savings

THROUGHOUT Canada, life insurance policyholders and beneficiaries should realize the menace to their own and the national welfare that lies in extreme and unjust legislation.

These policyholders represent 50 per cent. of the electors—federal and provincial. Through the institution of life insurance, they have so pooled their resources that their collective interest can withstand attacks that would bring financial disaster to the individual.

Despite war, epidemic, panic and depression, life insurance has met every policy obligation promptly and in full.

Despite the financial disturbance of the past six years, it has distributed, and continues to distribute, to its policyholders and beneficiaries, over $500,000 every working day.

Seventy-five per cent. of this money has been, and continues to be, paid to living policyholders; the balance to beneficiaries.

Life insurance is the greatest co-operative business in Canada. No one doubts its strength and stability. No one questions the prudent and intelligent direction of its affairs.

It is the guardian of the hard-earned savings of 3,500,000 men and women in all walks of life.

Today there are forces in Canada that menace the welfare of these people. These forces would penalize their savings and impair their investments through legislation which cancels public and private debts—regardless of the debtor's ability to pay—and which tends to destroy the ownership of public and private property.

The interests of life insurance policyholders and beneficiaries—as of all other citizens whose savings are invested in one form or another in Canada—demand that promises to pay be observed, when the debtor is able to pay; that hard-earned savings which safeguard the homes and families of the Dominion be protected from unjust legislation.

Don Smith Briefly Discusses Reasons for Movement Declining To Adopt Middle Course

Why the Provincial body of the C.C.F. movement declined to adopt a middle course and preferred the radical programme based on "social ownership" was explained by Don Smith at a C.C.F. public meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium last night.

Mr. Smith maintained the movement was "not primarily interested in electing members to the Legislature" but to first bring about a

Dr. J. D. MacLean Reports On Canadian Farm Loan Administration

DR. J. D. MACLEAN

Canadian Farm Loan Board is working satisfactorily throughout the country, Dr. J. D. MacLean, Ottawa, chairman and former Premier and Minister of Education of British Columbia, reported yesterday on his arrival at the Empress Hotel. He is here for a few days to confer with W. S. Palmer, Victoria manager. While in the city he plans to meet his old friends and will probably be present at a session of the Legislature.

Through the board, Dr. MacLean stated, $11,000,000 had been loaned to Canadian farmers during the fiscal year and, considering the difficult times, repayments were regarded as good.

BENEFITING FARMERS—Government loans were benefiting farmers in all provinces, with Quebec taking the largest amount. The loan board has been in operation since the first of 1929, with all the provinces included from the beginning with the exception of Ontario, Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan. It has been operating for a year in Saskatchewan and two years in Ontario.

Other members of the farm board are: B. J. Roberts, Government financial representative, and R. MacKenzie, Weyburn, Sask., a former member of Parliament.

FREEDOM FROM TAXES SOUGHT

Esquimalt Council Refers Toy Maker's Request to Civic Solicitor

Tax exemption for five years on a proposed new toy manufacturing plant was asked by George E. Hutchinson at a meeting of the Esquimalt Council last night. The matter was referred to the municipal solicitor for advice regarding the limits of the council to accede to the request.

Speaking on behalf of Mr. Hutchinson, Gordon Hickey stressed the value of the toy industry to Esquimalt, and declared the plant's payroll in two years would be $2,000 a month. He reviewed the rapid growth of the toy industry, from 1921 to 1929, while Mr. Hutchinson was with the company. In that time, Mr. Hickey said, the company's annual turnover rose from $1,000 to $70,000, and employed thirty men.

Reeve Alex Lockley answered that he did not think it was within the power of the council to exempt taxes, but intimated "some arrangement might be made in regard to the assessment."

MONTHLY ACCOUNTS—Monthly accounts amounting to $14,984.95 were ordered paid.

A letter from Reeve William Crouch, Saanich, concerning the reorganization of the Union of Canadian Municipalities and setting up of provincial regional councils, was read and filed. On a motion, it was decided to pay a membership fee of $10.

A by-law permitting the Victoria Brass & Iron Works to run an open furnace under Plover Street will be introduced at the next meeting of the council. This action was decided after the council received the municipality's solicitor's approval of the company's application.

Offer of the company to purchase a lot on Pioneer Street for $40 was accepted.

PARK FIREPLACE

Report from the fire chief and engineer on the proposed fireplace at Saxe Point was received and laid over for further consideration. Cost of a burner would be between $40 and $45. Councilors considered the possibility of having to provide water and other picnic facilities at Saxe Point if they constructed the fireplace.

Councillor Fred Eaton asked that Police Chief W. A. DeWolfe and Councillor David A. Henry, chairman of the fire and light committee, submit a report at the next meeting concerning the performance of the fire truck and as to its safety for employees.

CHARGE MONOPOLY CONDONED IN B.C.

Opening his attack, Mr. Planta produced a series of photographs and a chart. The photographs depicted, he said, the squalor under which he found Chinese living on the land in areas as close in as one adjacent to the University lands area at Point Grey. The chart showed, he stated, that 75 per cent of all green vegetables produced in the province are Chinese controlled, coming from 514 farms, allegedly under the domination of four big Chinese wholesale houses in Vancouver.

"Chinese of Vancouver have reduced British Columbia law courts to the status of kangaroo courts, made puppets out of some of our judiciary, undermined the ethics of the legal profession, flouted the statutes of this Province and Dominion, defied the police of the country, brazenly disregarded municipal by-laws and have virtually set up law unto themselves," Mr. Planta declared.

Fourteen years ago there was only one Chinese wholesaler in Vancouver; now there were twenty-one, of which ten were large enterprises which he averred are under domination of four concerns. Through a system of contract labor brokers and loan associations, the wholesalers controlled retail chains and groups, vegetable stores and 155 peddlers in the Mainland city alone; handling fresh green vegetables worth $1,500,000 yearly.

UNDER SUBJECTION

Chinese farmers were under subjection to this system, Mr. Planta continued, and would so continue unless market control were made effective, or unless other steps were taken by the Province to remedy the ills which he believed to exist. The dominant groups were steadily opposing market control, and had employed "Liberal" lawyers to carry their fight to the courts. "The result," he declared, was "a complete social and economic control."

Of 11,932 Chinese in Vancouver and 3,192 in Victoria, 11,533 in Vancouver and 2,838 in Victoria were either born in China or else registered as the Chinese consulate, the member for Peace River continued. He told of an investigation made by himself over three days and two nights, in which he said he found conditions of squalor among farm laborers and others in the distribution of vegetables; coupled with conditions of gross immorality in connection with the handling of the product itself.

Unspeakable vegetables, he asserted, were "reconditioned" at night and sold to leading restaurants on Granville Street, Vancouver, the next day. Health labor and marketing firms had been constantly flooded and nothing had been done about it by the administration, nor by the City of Vancouver.

Mr. Planta asked if this reply was to be taken as an indication of the Government's policy in respect to the royal commission sought. Government benches repeated the amendment was out of order, and Mr. Planta reserved his decision on the point. After two additional members

Old Days Are Recalled by Mrs. Vickers

Mrs. W. H. Vickers, 330 Moss Street, celebrated her fifty-sixth birthday on Friday, a number of old friends calling in the evening to wish her many happy returns. A delightful time was spent in talking of the old days in Victoria and in the Atlin country, where Mrs. Vickers lived after her marriage.

She was formerly Miss Lucy Mellor, her father, the late Mr. Joseph Mellor, coming to Victoria with his four sons in 1885. In 1894 Mrs. Mellor and her daughter, Lucy, came out from Lancashire, England, to join the family here, and their home was at 13 Bellot Street, now Burdell Avenue.

Mrs. Vickers attended the Girls' Central School, and has many interesting recollections of the old days in Victoria, which she has developed from a small town, watching its many changes with the greatest interest.

GOES TO ATLIN

In 1901 she married Mr. W. H. Vickers, in St. John's Church, the "little old iron church" on Douglas Street, and she and her husband, who was at the time chief of police for Atlin County, travelled to Skagway and thence over the Whitehorse trail line to Atlin, where they lived until 1907, when Mr. Vickers was transferred to Prince Rupert, where he was chief of police. In 1919 he was made provincial assessor and was chief of the city police until 1926, when he was transferred to Victoria. He passed away in 1929.

The Atlin days will always remain memorable ones, Mrs. Vickers says. There was plenty of work and an equal amount of amusement. Each season brought its own particular joys and the friendliness and hospitality of the people made for happy living.

At the time of the gold rush in 1898, Mr. Vickers represented the Government at Bennett, which was then a flourishing town.

Two of Mrs. Vickers' brothers are still living, George, who is head of Mellor Brothers, and Frank, who is in the amusement "tax" department of the Provincial Government. Her sister, Mrs. Joseph Felix Harwood, lives in Edmonton.

Mrs. Vickers hopes to leave next year to make her home in London, England.

Winners of the lucky numbers were Miss Sylvia Brown, Susan, Mr. Harold Snodden, Victoria, who returned his prize of a box of apples, which had been kindly donated to the institute, to be sent to the Sooke, and others. A three-piece orchestra, supplied music and played the "Grand March" at 11 o'clock. Judges of the costumes were Mrs. Norman Flinder, Victoria, and Mr. Low-Beattie, who chose the winners as follows: Best-dressed lady, Miss Jennie Thornber, spy; best-dressed gentleman, Mrs. Hinkleman, Milnes Landing, Turk; best Halloween lady, Mrs. A. Sullivan; best clown, Mr. George Priors, Osoyoos; best national, Mrs. Ralph Strang, Welsh lady; Miss Helen Shields, Russian; Mrs. Joseph Collins, Wrigles-Spearman sum; Mr. Ewey, farmer. Although they were not a great many in costume, those who were received praise from the judges, who remarked on the splendid costumes, particularly the old-fashioned lady, Hawaiian girl, Japanese, insect, night, Egyptians, gypsies, Dutch lady, Chinese, and others. Mrs. W. Cairns was convener and was assisted by members of the institute. Delegates to the island conference in Victoria tomorrow will be Mrs. J. Forrest and Mrs. Herbert Whitehead.

Marriage Is Solemnized Up-Island

A pretty Autumn wedding took place in Ladysmith on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Conley, when their youngest daughter, Miss Mildred, became the bride of Mr. John Walter Lock, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lock, Chemainus.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. McDermid, beneath a white bell suspended from an arch of trellis-work entwined with ivy, in a bower of Autumn flowers arranged in the drawing-room.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in her floor-length gown of white Matelasse crepe, with a cowl neckline caught with diamond clasps. Self-covered buttons were the only trimming and were used on the sleeves, which terminated in a pointed cuff, and also on the back. Her embroidered net veil fell gracefully from a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of pink and white roses, carnations, lace flowers and fern. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom.

BRIDE'S SISTERS

Mrs. Winifred Robinson, sister of the bride, was matron of honor in a rose beige princess gown of silk lace, with a velvet sash, while velvet flowers of a matching shade were worn on her hair. She carried a sheaf of Birmingham chrysanthemums. Miss Ethel Conley attended the bride as bridesmaid, wearing a pale blue floor-length frock of organdy, made on long princess lines, and the flowers in her hair were of sapphire blue velvet. She carried a sheaf of Kingsford Smith chrysanthemums.

Mr. Clarence Hawley was best man, and during the signing of the register, Miss Dorothy Hodgson sang "Because," accompanied on the piano by Mr. Winifred Robinson, who also played the wedding march.

Miss Conley, in a becoming gown of deep blue silk lace, welcomed the guests and was assisted by Mrs. Lock, mother of the groom, who wore a becoming gown of navy blue silk crepe. Both wore corsage bouquets of cream and pink roses.

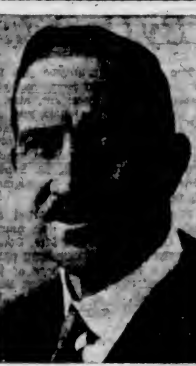

A three-tier wedding cake centered the refreshment table, which was covered with an Italian lace cloth and decorated with pink roses in tiny bud vases embedded in pink tulle. Tall baskets, filled with chrysanthemums and corn cobs, formed a background for the ceremony, while bowls of choice roses were used to decorate the rooms.

P.T.A. Activities

SIR JAMES DOUGLAS
The monthly meeting of the P.T.A. will be held in the school tonight at 8 o'clock. Arrangements will be made for the forthcoming bazaar and card party, and a full attendance of members is desirable.

SIR JAMES DOUGLAS
After the regular meeting of the association this evening, an illustrated lecture will be given by Mr. Fred Spencer, on his recent trip through Europe.

A man crossed a traffic-filled street while looking up at an aeroplane overhead. Three buses shaved him so closely that his beard didn't appear again for a week. The wind from six passing cars raised the nap on his last year's suit, one five-passenger car removed the shine from the back of his left shoe, and the drafts of seven others of assorted makes, while stripping their gears in an effort to avoid him, also stripped their vocabularies of every known high-powered adjective.

After stumbling over a kerb-stone on the farther side of the road, the pedestrian was heard to murmur: "My gracious, those chaps do take risks!"

Thou shalt not Love

CHAPTER X

Josh sat down, wiping her eyes. Suzie seemed so much in earnest she could not scold her. Beside, she needed sympathy.

"What do you mean—say, Jinx?" she tried to smile.

"The way you let Mom and Jake walk all over you, and take your money and give you a kick in the rump seat. You make me sick! Don't you know why Mom told you you looked like something the cat forgot to drag in in that dress?"

"Why?"

"Because she doesn't want you to look like, say, she thinks Kel is in love with you, or something. And if you got married and went away she'd lose her main ticket."

"That's no way to talk!" Josh interrupted, flushing. "She knows I'll never get married."

"Bah!" Suzie looked disgusted. "I guess I'll say what I think for once. I guess I've seen and heard plenty. It's about time you told me to."

"Now, Jinx," Josh had to begin, but she felt strangely comforted. "That will be about enough. But thanks for telling me I look okay."

"You never looked better in your life," Jinx said convincingly. "Here," she went over and handed Josh a none too clean handkerchief. "For goodness sake don't bawl any more. I bet Kel will think you look swell, too. Don't pay any attention to Mom. She's just jealous because you're going to have a little fun out of life. I bet they won't put anything over on me when I get 'big and tell my poetry.'"

"Poetry? Josh was surprised. 'Do you like poetry, honey?'"

"Sure," the green eyes sought the floor. "I write it, too."

"I'd love to read some of it," Josh tried to sound very serious. "Here."

"O.K. Be back in a jiff," Suzie. She was back in a few seconds to thrust a copybook into Josh's hands with a nervous little laugh.

"It's not very good," she seemed embarrassed. "I—it's kind of a diary. I started it last summer when I was in the country. Every day I'd write what happened—in sort of like poetry."

Josh was deeply touched that Jinx would let her read it. She suspected it was her way of trying to comfort her. She began to read silently. But after a few lines she looked up, amazed.

"Why, darling!" she said excitedly. "It's wonderful! I'm so proud of you. You'll be a famous poet, some day, I'm sure."

Jinx snorted.

"Baloogie! B—but read it sort of out loud, so I'll see how it sounds," Josh began.

"Grace, Alice, Lloyd and I. Went out for a little walk. Some wild crab apple blossoms we chanced to spy. As we walked and talked, I climbed up on the old rail fence. As the lovely blossoms swung, In the breeze among the bees— And I pretty nigh got stung. I got some of the blossoms. And started on toward home. And stepped upon a garter snake. As on I chanced to roam. I ran and got Bill Shaffer's hoe. And knocked out all his nose. And now he's lying peacefully. Beside the old rail fence."

Josh laughed heartily.

"Jinx, that's terribly funny!" I love it. I'm so glad you let me know you had this talent."

"Some of it is a lot of blash," Jinx flushed with pleasure at Josh's approval. "You—know. Sort of softy. There's one about the park. Read it and see how it sounds."

Suzie found the place, and Josh books to help her with her poetry. She smiled tenderly.

"We'll study together, darling. I love poetry, too."

"What?" the child looked suspicious.

"Promise you won't use bad grammar and talk like a little hoodlum any more. Any girl who can write such lovely things ought to talk that way. There's no excuse for your miserable English, dear. You've always heard it spoken properly at home."

"I just do it to get Mom's and Jake's goat. Gosh, I guess if Mom stayed home and paid a little attention to who played with me once in a while I wouldn't do it. That's just the kids. I play with talk. Lots of 'em. I don't want 'em to think I'm high-hatin' 'em. Do I?"

"No," tears stood in Josh's eyes. "But you can be a lady and still not high-hatin' anybody. You always have me, you know. Even if Mother and Jake are busy."

Jinx grinned.

"I did have you to sort of keep an eye on me and pick me up when trucks and things ran over me. But now that you're got a beau I guess maybe I'll have to pick myself up."

Josh laughed.

"You little goof! I haven't got a beau. You know I haven't. Why do you talk so silly?"

"Well," Suzie said shrewdly. "When grandma was a girl, if a fellow took a lady out every night for a week in succession, her father would have made him marry her."

"Suzie!" Jinx laughed in spite of her attempt not to. "And I thought you showed signs of reforming!"

"I do," Jinx winked her nose. "And it's worring me. Maybe I better go out and hunt up Jimmy and shoot some craps."

"She jumped up, laughing gleefully, and ran out with her book of poems in her hand. In a little while Josh looked out and saw her writing busily in the back yard—her face painfully expressive of concentration.

A great loud lifted from Josh's mind in so far as her younger sister was concerned. She felt closer to her than she had ever felt before. It would be possible now to influence Suzie quite easily, she felt certain.

She knew the psychology back of the child's wild sayings and her rosy actions. It hurt because she had found out, at an early age, that her parents had been disappointed because their third child was also a girl. In her effort to please and be wanted, she had tried to talk and act her idea of a regular fellow.

But the poetry was a revelation. It meant that, deep down in her heart, there was beauty and that in her love of nature and people she would find peace and comfort. Josh's heart was heavy because Suzie felt the way she did about her mother and Jake; that she knew, at ten years of age, they were selfish and not always sincere.

She was especially unhappy because the child knew that she had been neglected by her mother, that she blamed her for not even knowing with whom she associated, being too busy with her own silly affairs to care.

It wasn't that Maude Kelvin didn't love her children. Josh felt certain. But just that she loved her own pretty little self so intensely, to bother-much about any one else.

Josh took off her new things and slipped into a little old print dress to go down and eat. Mrs. Tell fed her and Suzie in the breakfast room. Maude had gone "shopping" to her bouclier refusing food. But after awhile she had come down in evening clothes, looking pale and composed, and driven away in a cab.

Don't you? Josh smiled. "It's a question, though, don't you think?"

Artist! Suzie granted. "You don't want to go around looking as though you were too lazy to keep your hair hair fixed do you? I bet Kel would like it fixed nice and wavy. Anyway it would be fun to see how you looked, wouldn't it?"

Maybe you're right. Josh slipped into her new taffeta wrap. "I'll go into conference with him and find out."

"I'll ask him," Jinx volunteered helpfully.

"If you do I'll throttle you," Josh laughed, waving her hand-by-kiss on the cheek. "Go to bed now like a good girl. Don't go out again."

"Now I'm giving birth to a poem," Suzie grinned. "It's about you and Kel. I'm going to finish it before I go to sleep. Maybe I'll leave a copy of it on your pillow if I think it's good."

"Do that," Josh laughed. But she thought you don't send a carbon copy to the doctor."

"I never would have thought of it," Jinx giggled.

"It is wrong to go through our husband's pockets when he has had a late evening."

No, lady, it's futile.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

A MAN OF "BLOOD AND IRON"

To be ruthless, merciless, unconscionably unfeeling and inconsiderate—that was it. It was less than the half of it—is to be a man of blood and iron.

Although the expression has been in use for not quite 2000 years, the particular individual who symbolized it was immortalized in 1862. Otto von Bismarck, German statesman, who died just before the turn of the nineteenth century.

Bismarck himself, was fond of the metaphor, employing it in his official correspondence and in at least one public speech, when he addressed the budget commission in the Prussian House of Deputies in 1862.

One of the earliest users, if not the earliest, of the phrase, was the Roman Quintilian, possibly contemporary of Christ, who stressed other rhetorical aims.

Quintilian—this is exactly as it was in the time of the Roman Emperor Nero. Vision—Quintilian—me! Ha! Ha! the lineolium worn well!

World Tour Party and Prominent Chinese Embark
On Liner Which Sails One Day Late From Victoria for Yokohama

Just about twenty-four hours late leaving Victoria, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia cleared Rihet Pier shortly after 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Waiting for travelers who were forced to come north because of the general steamship tie-up in Pacific Coast ports of the United States, sixty-three passengers boarded the liner here immediately after the arrival of the afternoon boat from Seattle. Two carloads of mail also came in from the south for points in the Orient and was put aboard the liner.

Among the passengers coming in from California were General Tang Pei Li, official of the Chinese Government, who is returning to Nanjing after a world tour; Miss Irene Ho of Hongkong, who has been on a visit to England; T. Y. Wu, of the Chinese Government, broadcasting station, Nanjing; Mr. Chen, consul for China to Mexico, who is on a visit to Nanjing; and a Bowers World Tour party of twenty-six prominent Americans.

FROM ORIENT SIDE
Coming in from the Philippines by way of China, Japan and Hawaii, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan, Captain W. T. Kinley, R.N.R., commander, was to reach Rihet Pier at 6 o'clock this morning, according to wireless advices received yesterday afternoon from the ship by James Macfarlane, local agent of the company. This should bring the liner up alongside Rihet Pier about 7 o'clock. The Japan has passengers, mails and cargo for this port.

SAILING THURSDAY
Because Atlantic liners were delayed by gales on the Atlantic last week, the Canadian-Australasian motorship Aorangi will be a day late in leaving Victoria. The liner will sail Thursday afternoon instead of Wednesday afternoon. The liner will take out a large passenger list. Prominent passengers aboard will be Hon. George and Lady Cynthia Colville, the latter being lady-in-waiting to Her Majesty the Queen; Hon. Mrs. Britten, sister of Hon. George Colville; Lady Agnes Marchmont and Col. L. M. Cogswell, Canadian Trade Commissioner to Melbourne, accompanied by Mrs. Cogswell.

DUE IN TONIGHT
Inbound from Japan ports, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha Maru Hikawa Maru is due to reach Rihet Pier at 11 o'clock tonight, according to Harry Douglas, local agent of the line. The Hikawa Maru has four

NOTICE TO CONSIGNEES
THIS is to advise that the Empress of Japan will be delayed by one day in leaving Victoria for Yokohama. Consignees of goods on board the Empress of Japan should deliver their goods to the Rihet Pier No. 2.

Vancouver and overland cargo aboard the Hikawa totals 2,200 tons, while the liner has 2,295 tons for Seattle. It is presumed the passengers and cargo will be landed at Vancouver on account of the strike situation in the Washington port.

CAME HERE DIRECT
Coming to Victoria direct from San Francisco, the Empress of Japan, Captain W. T. Kinley, R.N.R., arrived alongside Rihet Pier at 7:45 o'clock yesterday morning. The combined freight and passenger ship did not go to Seattle, her customary port of call. The president landed general cargo and landed some freight for the home-bound bound passage. Passengers aboard her were Mrs. E. W. Deane, of England, and Mrs. N. G. Grant and son, bound for the Interior.

Broke Up

ST. IVES, Cornwall, Nov. 2 (U.P.)—Thirty-three members of the crew of the American steamer Bessemer City were snatched from a watery grave early today as their ship was pounded to pieces on the rocks off the treacherous Cornish coast.

Working in darkness with a heavy sea threatening to engulf their tiny craft, a coast guard lifeboat crew took off the thirty-three men after the Bessemer City piled up on the rocks at Pendennis Point, three miles west of here.

"Visibility was wretched," said A. Herman, the captain, "and we didn't get as much as a peep at the lights. We were on the rocks before we knew anything about it."

Mother had been to London to do some shopping, and she told an amusing incident of her visit. The bus, she said, was full of Chinese and Indian shoppers, and a rather stout elderly lady on top had worried the conductor almost out of his wits by repeatedly reminding him to stop for her at a certain place. At last they arrived there and the conductor promptly stopped the bus. No one moved. They waited a minute or so; then the conductor ran half-way up the stairs. "Missus," he shouted, "didn't you want the Albert Memorial?" "Yes," replied she, smiling. "Well come dahn, then," said the conductor.

PASSES AWAY
IN HOSPITAL

Ben Axhorn, Veteran Marine and Sealer, Dies After Brief Illness

Ben Axhorn, mariner and sealer, who made his home here for a great number of years, passed away at 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning in St. Joseph's Hospital. He had been ill five days only, and the news of his passing will be a great shock to a wide circle of friends here, and particularly to his brother shipmates of the Thermopylae Club, where he was one of the most active members of the "watch."

Mr. Axhorn was born in Tiverton, Devonshire, England, November 10, 1864. Going to sea at an early age, he served on sailing ships between England and Australia and California, arriving here for the first time in 1889 aboard the bark Thymon. In the following year, he returned to Victoria from England and was employed for a time on the tug Pilot and Thistle.

JOINED THE SEALERS
Joining the sealers, he made trips to the Japan coast and to Bering Sea aboard such well-known vessels as the Agnes McDonald, the Labrador and the Mary Taylor. During the gold rush into the Klondike, he went north and steam-boated on Lake Bennett and the Yukon River.

For the last three decades, Mr. Axhorn lived ashore and was a valued member of the B.A. Paint Company's staff and the Sons of England.

He is survived by his widow and daughter, Charlotte, at the family residence, 437 Niagara Street. A brother, Charles Axhorn, 1427 Pembroke Street; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Bennett, Vancouver, and Mrs. E. Colmar, London, England; a brother, Sidney, in England; a niece, Mrs. Rose Jones, 1238 Basil Avenue.

The remains are resting at the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home, where the funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Members of the Thermopylae Club will be the pallbearers. Rev. E. F. Church will officiate and interment will be made at Colwood Burial Park.

On a plantation a certain workman loved ease and fishing. When he wasn't fishing he was loafing. One night there was heavy rain, and the next morning all the low places on the plantation were flooded two feet deep. Passing the workman's cabin, the owner found his man seated in an easy chair fishing in a puddle of muddy water.

"Here, Henry, you old fool," said the owner, "what are you doing?" "Fishing," said Henry. "I'm fishing!" "Well, don't you know there is no fish there?"

"Yes, I know that, but this 'ere place is so handy."

CRAFT ARE PILOTLESS

Royal Navy's Radio Planes Give Gunners Valuable Practice

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Pilotless radio-controlled aircraft were the targets of anti-aircraft ship batteries during the naval exercises recently. For three hours at a time these ingenious small aircraft, which are launched by catapult from a cruiser, have manoeuvred at heights ranging up to nearly 10,000 feet, while the naval gunners have done their best to shoot them down.

So far as is known, no other country has developed pilotless aircraft to the same level of efficiency as Great Britain. Critics who emphasize the relatively poor performance of the craft at present used Queen Bee light biplanes, capable of a maximum speed of about 100 miles an hour, and who express doubts whether practice on targets differing so widely from the targets that would be presented to ships' gunners by modern bombers are sufficiently answered in the words of Lord Stanley, Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, who has said: "It is a great feat to be enabled to have a flying target at all."

FOR USE AS TENDER
The old aircraft carrier Argus is now in course of re-equipment for use as a tender for pilotless aircraft. Up to the present the vessel engaged in controlling the robot airplanes has been any available cruiser fitted with the special radio apparatus required for the work. That system worked quite well when the number of pilotless aircraft was limited and flying practice with them comparatively rare, but with the increase in the number of robots and the big increase in the amount of time devoted to anti-aircraft gunnery from warships, provision of a special ship has become essential.

At least eight pilotless craft of the Queen Bee type will be carried on the converted Argus. On board the ship will be special gear for launching and salvaging the airplanes, and radio control apparatus to guide them as they fly. The Argus will carry an extra marking party and machines for recording accuracy of gunfire.

MADE OF WOOD
In external appearance the Queen Bee, which is built by the De Havilland Company, is similar to the Tiger Moth light biplane which is used for instructional flying in the Royal Air Force and in several foreign air forces; the chief difference is that the Tiger Moth is made of metal, and the Queen Bee, of wood, which insures, among other desirable qualities, that the craft will float if it is brought down on the water by gunfire. Power is supplied by a Gipsy-Major 120 h.p., four-cylinder, air-cooled engine.

There are two cockpits, one of which is open and can be rapidly fitted with flying controls for use by a human pilot. In the other, closed, cockpit is the secret mechanism which guides the machine on its course, and controls the engine throttle in obedience to radio signals sent from a ship or a ground battery. Maximum radius of controlled pilotless flight is about ten miles from the operating centre.

Meat authorities reported the market reflected a continued demand for armaments, limited stocks and broad buying for industrial demands throughout Europe. At the same time it was said some domestic producing quarters had feared that some of the recent buying abroad was for speculative account.

In the domestic market the quotation was unchanged at 10 cents a pound. Sales in October were said to have set a record at 178,795 tons. The previous monthly high was 175,900 tons in July of this year.

Nickel Declares Higher Dividend
NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Directors of International Nickel Company of Canada today declared a quarterly dividend on the common stock of 40 cents, payable December 31 to shareholders of record December 21.

The payment was the third successive increase in quarterly dividends this year. On September 30 a dividend of 35 cents a share was paid. On June 30 the payment was 30 cents, and on March 31 it was 25 cents.

Interim third quarter earnings report will be issued on November 12.

FOOTBALL WAR IS IN THE AIR
Ineligible Imports Used by Regina May Cause Flare-Up Soon

TORONTO, Nov. 2.—Easterners were "used today" by Tommy Munns, sports editor of the Toronto Globe, to "get ready for another football war."

"It will be waged in committee rooms by telegraph, not on playing fields," Munns wrote in his column. "Last chance for a peaceful settling—well, almost the last one—vanished Saturday when Regina Roughriders defeated Winnipeg and eliminated them from the Western Canada playoffs."

"Now Regina should brush Moose Jaw and the somewhat stronger Calgary Bronks aside. If, as I think, that happens, the game will be on," he wrote the old banqueting stage.

"It had been thought in the East that Regina's prospects were numbered ten. Five is the number admitted by the club officials, but whether it be one, five or ten, cancellation of the Dominion final will be threatened if the Roughriders adhere to their intention to bring their complete team East."

If they don't it will mean the end of the C.R.U. and organized football in Canada, so far as the individual unions are concerned, will be at an end."

Ritchie appeared to be out, but the bell sounded before the ten count and he was revived in time for the second. The same thing happened at the end of the fifth, but this time Fontaine came up and stood off Zivic to the end of the round.

"The Rendezvous" New Place to Dine and Dance
Special Planked Chicken Dinners Being Served Day and Night—Orchestra in Attendance From 9

Victorians in search of a new place to dine and dance are now offered something different in the way of entertainment through the establishment of "The Rendezvous." Only seven miles from the city, in the clubhouse of the Colwood race track, the Rendezvous is under the direction of H. S. Krause and George White, the latter being known throughout the country as being formerly of the Plantation Inn, Vancouver. A big feature at the Rendezvous is the serving of special planked chicken dinners, day and night, with a first class orchestra known as the Rendezvous Grenadiers, in attendance from 9 p.m. An excellent dance floor invites the patrons, while the interior decoration, carried out in a motif of black, silver and green, is most effective. On Sundays, a special dinner is served in the accompaniment of a salon orchestra, from 6 to 8 p.m.

The Rendezvous offers special facilities for the accommodation of visiting parties and business men, a spacious private dining-room with all the advantages of the regular high standard of service.

RANGERS FIELDING STRONG TEAM THIS SEASON

Youngsters Will Get Chance With New York Club

Lester Patrick Will Mingle Veterans and Several Rookies This Season—Lynn Patrick to Work On Front Line With Frank Boucher and Cecil Dillon—Dave Kerr to Guard Nets Again.

This is the fourth of a Canadian Press series dealing with prospects of National Hockey League teams on the eve of a season. Others will follow.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (C)—The march of time has finally caught up with New York Rangers and Lester Patrick.

Patrick, coach of the blue-shirted National Hockey League squad, the "old men of Manhattan" who left New York last spring as the first Rangers.

Some of the old "originals" will be on hand but in the main Patrick must depend on the youngsters, who were promoted from the Philadelphia farm team last season and other minor league material.

The job of blending veterans and kids provides the first real test of Patrick as a team-builder. When he came down from the Canadian West a decade ago to take charge of Rangers it had already been built by Conny Smythe, now head of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Bill and Bun Cook and Frankie Boucher were the backbone of the club and they functioned until last year as hockey's highest scoring front line. Patrick has been called upon to make only one or two replacements a season since he took charge.

SOLD TO BOSTON With Bun sold to Boston and Bill as coach and utility player, Patrick has selected the Colville brothers, Mac and Neil, and Alex Shibicky as replacements. They have been in turn on the Western Canada junior champions, titlists of the Eastern United States Amateur League and on the championship Philadelphia Club of the Canadian-American League.

Neil, centre, is expected to be the star of the trio. He is deadly around the net and a fine playmaker. Shibicky's shot is said by several goalkeepers to be harder to handle than the booming cannonades of Charlie Conacher. He is a right-hander but plays left wing well—Mac fits in perfectly with his uncanny knack of setting up plays for the other two.

Patrick has elevated Joe Cooper and Babe Pratt to defensive posts. The pair started with Philadelphia and were given tryouts with the Rangers last season. Cooper, a hard body checker, will work alongside Ot Heller, who has started with the team several years. Pratt will have Art Coulter, one of the hardest checkers in the league, alongside of him.

Rangers' No. 1 line will be made up of Boucher at centre, flanked by Lynn Patrick and Cecil Dillon, while the third line consists of Murray "Iron-Man" Murdoch as pivot, and the veteran Bulch Keeling and young Phil Watson on the wings.

KERR BACK AGAIN Dave Kerr has had two seasons of big league warfare in the Rangers and Patrick is not worrying about that post.

Another of the originals who has been pushed aside by Father Time is big Ching Johnson, the smiling defenceman, who will be assistant coach and spare rearguard.

While the team does not appear exceptionally strong, Patrick is banking heavily on the ability of his kids. If they come through as he believes they will, the Rangers are due to resume their place as Stanley Cup contenders.

If they don't there will be much eyebrow raising around 9th Street and 8th Avenue, where Patrick is considered tops as a judge of talent, master of strategy and diplomat extraordinary in the handling of players.

In a west of England church the banns between two parishioners had been read for the first time. After the service the vicar was accosted by the prospective bridegroom.

"Mr. Goodbody, I want to speak to you about those banns. Can I have 'em changed?"

"Certainly, if you wish," was the surprised reply. "You are not married yet, or legally bound in any way?"

"Ah," with a sigh of relief. "That's what I wanted to know. You see, I've been thinking, and seem to me I'd rather have her sister."

"You can please yourself," replied the vicar. "But, of course, fresh banns must be published."

"Ah," a pause. "Mr. Goodbody, I sold her half a crown for putting up those banns. Shall I have to pay another half crown?"

"Of course you will."

"Oh," a long pause. "Then, with sudden resolution, 'Aw, well, leave 'em be as 'tis'."

S. AUSTRALIA NEAR VICTORY

Can Defeat Touring M.C.C. Eleven by Scoring 170 Runs Today

ADELAIDE, Australia, Nov. 2 (C)—Fighting an uphill battle, South Australia, with five wickets in hand, needs 170 runs for victory over the touring Marylebone Cricket Club team. The match concludes tomorrow.

Led by Walter Hammond, who scored a century in each innings, the visitors scored 233 and 236. South Australia was dismissed for 162 in its first innings and when stumps were drawn today had lost five wickets for 138 runs.

By scoring 136 today, Hammond, star of the English team, equaled the Australian record of Don Bradman, the Commonwealth's leading batsman, who made four centuries in successive innings in first-class cricket in the 1931-32 campaign.

The opening match of the tour against West Australia at Perth, the Gloucestershire star hit 141. A few days later in a match against a combined West Australia eleven, he made 107 and followed this in the first innings of the present match by compiling 104. The one-day match against Clare, October 28, in which Hammond made 40 runs, does not rank as a first-class contest.

HAMMOND STARS In making his century today, Hammond's batting was featured by many stinging square cuts instead of his customary drives. He was at the wickets three hours, thirty-nine minutes and hit eleven fours.

Ward, clever young spin bowler, who learned many of his tricks from Charlie Grinnell, veteran Aussie goosy expert, again starred for South Australia and enhanced his prospects of playing in test cricket. He captured five English wickets for 98 runs. In the first innings Ward got five for 79.

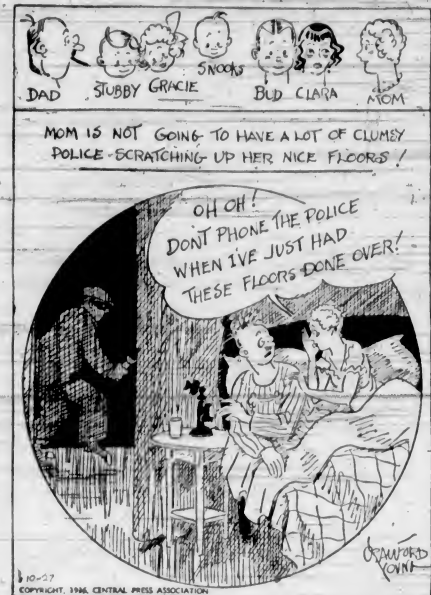

Visitor Richardson, veteran South Australian, defended stubbornly today and at the close had made 44 not out. He was bowled on the last ball of the day by Sims, but the delivery was ruled a "no-ball."

Ten thousand were present for the third day's play, the wicket favoring batsmen.

THE TUTTS... By Crawford Young

Jane Dixon Says:

A WOMAN, MARRIED TO A DESPICABLE MAN, WRITES A LETTER OF ENCOURAGEMENT FOR "BETTY"

For Betty: One who understands, Betty, read your letter in the column, and she has written to reassure you. After reading her letter, you will feel pretty much as I do—that the troubles you and I think we have are mere vexations. It takes such confidence as this woman in a far place has given us to make us realize that we are not Footballs of Fate.

Dear Jane Dixon: Betty's letter has tempted me to write and tell her something of my own experiences.

I've been married fifteen years.

I have four wonderful kiddies and another in delicate health. The eldest is fourteen.

You say, Betty, your husband is wonderful when he is sober. That's a blessing. Imagine yourself married to a man who is cruel in drink and out of it.

My daddy died a few years ago. He was a World War veteran. My brothers were killed in the war. I had my own home, almost paid for. Then things began to slide. My health broke. My husband ran with other women. I lost four babies. I had to undergo a succession of operations. After the last one I returned from the hospital to sleep in an old shack—I and my little sick boy.

HER EARTHLY POSSESSIONS VANISH

My home was gone. My furniture was gone. My kiddies had been put in homes private and charitable.

With the help of friends I managed to get a tiny home. It's a shelter. I have nothing to call my own except my children and myself.

Life is still difficult for me. My husband, the father of my children, does all he can to bring us down to his level. He gambles away or spends all he makes. Many times I've starved myself for long periods in order that my little ones might eat.

I've been to a lawyer for advice. He gave me no hope. I've begged the father of my kiddies for just a little bit of money to buy food for them. Sometimes he turns me away. When he does give me a few coins, he wraps them in curses.

We haven't even a clock in the house. He took my clock and sold it. Nothing worth selling is left now. He is away for days and nights at a time, then comes home and eats up everything in the house. The children can go hungry and do.

HUSBAND LIVES TO TORTURE HER

You'll say, Miss Dixon, that there can't be such a man. That my picture of him is impossible.

Well, that's where you're wrong. He lives to torture me and to terrify his children. I was not born to this life. God knows I've done nothing to deserve it. I'm alone, trying to raise my children to health and to decency.

Here's an example of what goes on in our shelter. The other day we managed to get in a little food that would last us a few meals. My husband came in after being away for some time. He said some one stole ten dollars out of his pocketbook and his work permit. It made me sick. Think what that ten dollars would buy for our children! The milk, the bread, the warmth they need.

Be thankful, Betty, that you are able to work. I can't because my health is gone, and I have my kiddies to care for. Keep your money, or at least half of it. Put it someplace where it will be safe for you.

I just wanted you to know that there is someone in a worse fix than you. Sometimes I get very down-hearted, but when I look at my kiddies I know there's a new day coming.

One of these new days will be the one on which I go to court and demand that this unfaithful husband and slacker father be put away where he can't have so much fun for himself.

You have my sympathy, Betty, now and always.

HOMELAND.

Answer, I hope you do not weaken on your intention to make the father of your children realize he is a man, not a varmint. And thanks a lot for your answer to Betty.

IMPERIAL
POLICY

DURING the first half of life there are lots of expenses for the married man with a family. His marriage, the purchase of a home, babies, doctors' bills, the children's education, taxes—all take money. He is glad to pay, of course, but how can the average man meet all these and other obligations and still save enough money to take care of his home and family if he should die prematurely?

The answer is he cannot do so—in the ordinary way.

Nevertheless, there is a plan by which he can perform these duties—a policy in the Imperial Life. The yearly deposit required for such a policy is very moderate. A man of twenty-five can secure a $10,000 policy for a premium of less than $15 a month. If he lives until his family is grown up and self supporting, his Imperial policy can provide a welcome fund or income for his own years of retirement.

If you have the impression that life insurance requires a large outlay of money, send your name and address today for particulars of Imperial Ordinary Life Policies

What Today Means

"SCORPIO"
If November 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 to 10:45 a.m., from 1:45 to 3:45 p.m., and from 7:45 to 9:45 p.m. The danger periods are from 6:45 to 8:45 a.m., from 5:45 to 7:45 p.m., and from 9:45 to 11:45 p.m.

Scorpios may prevent many an accident this day, if they walk with their heads up, eyes open and minds fixed on an objective. Some salesmen will have exceptionally fine values this day, so the wise purchasing agent will interview as many as he can. Customers will be inclined to be peevish, so ought to be handled with "kid gloves." You may receive a letter from a great distance, which perhaps will require careful reading to understand its full import. Be cautious you do not jump to a wrong conclusion, even after you have read it a second time. Be careful that by indulging in a personal weakness, you do not place yourself open to considerable condemnation. You cannot afford to disregard any of society's rules governing conventional conduct. ried and engaged couples, as well as those hoping Cupid will help their matrimonial aspirations, must treat dumb animals kindly this day, for a good many petty squabbles probably will originate over pets.
If a woman and November 3 is your birthday, your love for system can cause you trouble, for you may make everyone miserable by trying to enforce it. You have the knack of wearing clothes advantageously. You are graceful and you should be an excellent dancer. You may be a trifle too much inclined towards books, plays and pictures bordering on the sensational. You generally tell your friends, in a straight-forward fashion, whatever meets with your disapproval. It might pay to be a little more tactful in this respect. As a musician-office executive, artist, writer, educator, missionary, actress or singer you might make a remarkable record for yourself. Do not permit a career, however, to interfere with your having a home, because your greatest happiness will come through your family life.
The child born on November 3 must not in its formative years, be permitted to have an exaggerated sense of its own importance. Egotism is a fault that cannot be allowed to spoil this youngster's chances for a successful future.
If a man and November 3 is your natal day, shrewd judgment will enable you to make a good deal of money. As a politician, banker, manufacturer, journalist, salesman or theatrical producer you may discover you have a touch of gold.

KASLO'S MAYOR FATALLY HURT

Dies in Hospital After Car
Plunges Off Road in Heavy Snow

KASLO, Nov. 2 (C.P.).—Apparently unable to see ahead as a storm wind lashed thick, heavy, wet snow in Kaslo on Saturday, Mayor William Vidler Papworth seemingly drove his car off the road as he approached a bridge and was fatally injured in the vehicle's twenty-five-foot plunge to rough ground below. He died a few minutes after admission to hospital.

Mrs. Papworth and W. P. Rudkin, who were riding with him, received serious injuries but are expected to live.

Mr. Papworth had been Mayor of Kaslo for the past two years after about twenty years' service as city clerk. He was active in community affairs, being a member of the Kaslo hospital board and of the board of trade, and was secretary of the Kaslo and District Fifteen Hundred Club. He was also actively interested in mining. He had been in the district more than forty years and at one time was in partnership with J. W. Cockle in the Kaslo Hotel.

FINDS CO-OPERATIVE MOVEMENT UNDER WAY IN CANADIAN CITIES

Evidence of co-operative growth in Manitoba and Saskatchewan has been found by R. W. Leckie, Glasgow, general secretary of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society, who was registered at the Empress Hotel yesterday with Mrs. Leckie, and Robert Murray, director from Glasgow.

Mr. Leckie explained that the Saskatchewan co-operative wholesale society was supplying the buying clubs attached to the elevators. Although the co-operative movement was originally started among the working classes, Mr. Leckie stated professional men and women were becoming interested in the movement in large centres such as Montreal and Toronto, and similarly in the United Kingdom. Study and buying groups were being formed throughout the Dominion and the movement was spreading rapidly. The Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society spends $10,000,000 in Canada every year. This includes the purchase of wheat to the value of $5,000,000 and the remainder in sockeye salmon, fruits, canned and fresh eggs, cheese, live cattle and processed meats.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

THE MIXED DIET IS BEST FOR MAN

We do not read or hear of the arguments now between vegetarians and those who eat the mixed diet. It is now generally agreed among nutrition experts, those who by education and from experience are best fitted to inform us on these matters, that the mixed diet is best for man. That man, doing little more than office work, should not eat meat three times a day is admitted, but that he should have not meat for years daily because he does no physical work is a mistake. The body in doing its own regular work, of heating the blood and tissues, circulating the blood, digesting food and other work, needs some animal protein to build and repair worn tissues.

As mentioned before, animals that eat only grasses and herbs such as the cow need a long digestive tract and thus the length of the cow's intestine is extremely long as compared with the length of the dog, whereas the digestive tract of the dog which eats only meat is short, compared with the length of the cow's body. Man, whose digestive tract is shorter compared to his length than that of the cow, and longer as compared with the dog, should therefore eat less grass or vegetables as compared with the cow, and less meat as compared with the dog. In other words man should eat a mixed diet.

Further, if man does hard physical work, or takes hard exercise, he will need more meat than if he is an office worker or takes little or no exercise.

Dr. Harvey Campbell, London, England, in a letter to the editor of The British Medical Journal, says: "The nutrient or food value of vegetable food has been enormously increased by cultivation, yet man cannot attain his full measure of mental and physical health on such a diet, no matter how skillfully selected and fortified by vegetable extracts. The significant fact is that animal proteins and fats have a higher nourishing value for man than the corresponding forms such as cereals and vegetable oils."

Mr. Henry Light, who for thirty years, had been intimately associated with "vegetarian athletes" and for twenty years captained their cycling club, "had only known one man who was able to maintain health on a purely vegetarian diet, yet even in his case, athletes, solid, after a short time set in, when the addition of a small quantity of animal food, milk and eggs—sufficed to re-establish his natural vigor."
